

THE LEGACY OF THE WORK

Leadership

The leadership volume of The Journey of the Three Fires™ was written out of a lifetime of observing leadership in environments where responsibility carried real consequences.

Across years of service in government, organizational management, ministry, and the broader study of leadership under pressure, a consistent pattern emerged. Leaders often possessed intelligence, talent, and ambition, yet many struggled to sustain alignment between what they believed, what they were responsible for, and what they were called to accomplish.

It became clear that leadership failure rarely begins with a lack of knowledge. More often it begins with misalignment.

The 7000 RPM Leadership System™ was developed to address that reality. It presents leadership not as a collection of techniques but as a living system built upon the alignment of three essential forces: Responsibility, Purpose, and Mission.

Responsibility reminds leaders that influence is a form of stewardship.
Purpose provides the clarity that guides a leader's direction.
Mission transforms vision into disciplined action.

These principles were not formed in theory alone. They were shaped through years of practical leadership, observation, and reflection within environments where decisions affected organizations, communities, and people.

The legacy of this work is therefore not merely a leadership philosophy. It is a framework designed to help leaders sustain clarity amid complexity and responsibility.

If this book accomplishes its purpose, it will equip leaders to carry their influence with wisdom, humility, and endurance.

Leadership ultimately leaves a legacy not through authority, but through the direction it gives to others.
